About Lainey Wilson

GRAMMY® Award-winning, prolific singer-songwriter, Lainey Wilson has earned the enthusiasm and praise of the industry. Critically acclaimed and touted as 'Entertainer of the Year,' the Louisiana native who has often been described as a "bona fide storyteller at work," has made a name for herself as a next generation icon. Constantly defying the traditional norms and conventions of the Country music genre, Wilson's "rulebreaking" achievements have led her to numerous accolades and a diehard fanbase.

Nearly 10 years to the day after leaving her small farming community in a camper trailer to chase her dreams in Nashville, she earned her first PLATINUM certified song, with "Things A Man Oughta Know," and won over legions of fans across the globe with her signature sound and aesthetic, blending traditional Country with a modern yet retro flare. Thus far, her music has taken her worldwide with headlining shows in Europe, the UK, Australia, and more. With seven No.1 songs to date, Wilson has become the lead female artist with the most No.1's this decade along with two GRAMMY® nominations, nine ACM awards and seven CMA awards.

Making her acting debut in Season 5 of Paramount's smash hit series Yellowstone, Wilson has become a triple-threat in the industry, claiming the roles of singer, songwriter, and actress. Fans can also catch Wilson on her upcoming, "Country's Cool Again," headlining North American tour this Summer and pre-order/pre-save/pre-add her forthcoming studio album, Whirlwind, now.
