LAS VEGAS (February 3, 2025) – Building on the unprecedented success of his Unreal Unearth Tour in 2023 and 2024, Hozier returns in 2025 with an extended run of dates across North America, which will include a newly added Las Vegas stop at T-Mobile Arena on Sunday, Oct. 5, 2025. This exciting new leg of the tour will see the acclaimed singer-songwriter touring stadiums for the first time along with his return to amphitheaters and festivals around the country.

Over the course of its 2023-2024 North America run, the Unreal Unearth Tour drew over one million fans, with record-breaking ticket sales over the 83 performances and countless sold-out shows across 72 cities. In response to extraordinary demand, the 2025 extension promises to deliver even more unforgettable nights of music, including performances in previously unvisited venues and additional opportunities for fans to experience Hozier's breathtaking live artistry.

Fans can sign up for the artist pre-sale now through Wednesday, Feb. 5 at 7 a.m. PT at livemu.sc/hozier. The artist pre-sale runs Thursday, Feb. 6 from 10 a.m. PT to 1:30 p.m. PT, while the general on sale starts Thursday, Feb. 6 at 2 p.m. PT at AXS.com.

Hozier's live shows have become a beacon of raw emotion and artistry, captivating audiences with their blend of soulful energy, rich storytelling, and dynamic musicianship. As his music continues to evolve, the Unreal Unearth Tour serves as a testament to his enduring connection with fans and his ability to translate deeply personal themes into once-in-a-lifetime live moments backed by his band. This new run continues his celebrated journey of connecting with fans through powerful live performances.

Released on August 18, 2023 via Columbia Records, his third album Unreal Unearth has been celebrated as a defining work, praised for its exploration of resilience and humanity amid life's uncertainties. The album debuted at No. 3 on the Billboard 200 and has garnered acclaim from outlets such as Rolling Stone, Esquire and Billboard.

About Hozier
Hozier finds harmony and melody in the midst of chaos. The GRAMMY® Award-nominated Diamond-certified Irish singer, songwriter, and multi-instrumentalist tunes into raw blues spirit, unrestrained soul, rock energy, and folk eloquence. At 22, he delivered a generational anthem in the form of "Take Me To Church." It reached 13x-Platinum status and earned a rare Diamond certification from the RIAA, climbed to the No. 2 on the Billboard Hot 100, became one of the Top 30 "Most-Streamed Songs on Spotify," and notched a GRAMMY® Award nomination in the category of "Song of the Year." It paved the way for his 2014 full-length debut, Hozier, which debuted at No. 2 on the Billboard 200 and went double-Platinum. The 2019 Gold-certified follow-up, Wasteland, Baby!, bowed at No. 1 on the Billboard 200 and spawned the Platinum single "Almost (Sweet Music)" as well as "Would That I," which has been the featured sound of recent viral trends on TikTok.

With over 14 billion streams worldwide and countless late-night television performances, Hozier landed on President Barack Obama's annual "Favorite Songs" list with "Nina Cried Power" featuring Mavis Staples, performed at The Kennedy Center Honors, and served up original compositions for everything from the blockbuster Legend of Tarzan to Sony Playstation juggernaut God of War: Ragnarök in collaboration with composer Bear McCreary. He has collaborated with Mavis Staples, Annie Lennox, Tori Kelly, Maren Morris, MEDUZA, and Noah Kahan. Additionally, Hozier has impressively sold over 1 million tickets globally – selling out legendary venues such as The Hollywood Bowl and Madison Square Garden, to name a few. This dyed-in-the-wool troubadour has never shied away from social commentary, addressing injustices suffered by the LGBTQ+ community, women's rights, domestic violence, climate change, and the endless fight for social justice.

In 2023, Hozier released Eat Your Young EP featuring three songs including the titular lead track. This EP was inspired by the nine circles of Hell from Dante's Inferno. He then released his third full-length LP, Unreal Unearth [Columbia Records], which debuted at No. 3 on the Billboard 200. The following year, he continued his success with his second EP of this cycle, Unheard, featuring the track "Too Sweet." The song became Hozier's first number one on the US Billboard Chart, making him the first Irish artist to reach that spot in 34 years. "Too Sweet" also went Platinum twice in the UK, four times in the U.S. and Australia, and has now surpassed 1 billion streams on Spotify. Hozier then released his third EP of this cycle, Unaired, which features the current new single "Nobody's Soldier." On December 6, 2024 Hozier released Unreal Unearth: Unending, a cumulation of the EPs and album, thus, completing Dante's nine circles of Hell.
