ULTRA SODADE, released on February 14, 2025, has been critically acclaimed as the singer-songwriter's most mature and reflective work to date. Produced entirely by his twin brother Bryan Kaarl, the album explores the stages of heartbreak with devastating emotional precision. Its 13 songs blend Kevin's characteristic folk melancholy with new sonic horizons, incorporating alternative pop/rock elements and electronic textures.

Rolling Stone en Español praised the album, giving it a perfect five-star rating. The magazine highlighted Kaarl's narrative evolution and described the album as "an emotional journey that resonates with anyone who has experienced the grief of heartbreak."

In its debut week, ULTRA SODADE reached No. 4 on Spotify's Top Albums Debut Global chart and No. 8 on the Top Albums Debut USA chart. Additionally, it was one of the featured releases on Spotify's coveted Times Square billboard in New York City. To date, ULTRA SODADE has surpassed 19 million streams across digital platforms.

The album was released on February 14 and presented at a VIP event at Soho House in Mexico City. The gathering brought together Mexican music critics, industry insiders, and influencers, who enjoyed a Q&A session moderated by Diego Madrigal, renowned journalist and creative director of Canal 555.

ABOUT KEVIN KAARL:

Kevin Kaarl, a prominent Mexican independent folk music figure, was born on May 15, 2000, in Meoqui, Chihuahua. His musical journey began at six years old in a school competition, performing a Marco Antonio Solís song. He grew up alongside his twin brother Bryan in a family environment where music, from Los Bukis to Andrea Bocelli, was omnipresent. His musical training began in the elementary school choir and Marching Band, where he learned transverse flute and music theory. At eight, he received a guitar from his grandfather to shape his destiny, though his genuine connection with the instrument would come years later. 2018 was the decisive year when, together with Bryan, he began creating covers and composing. His first single, "Amor Viejo," would reach over 196 million streams on Spotify. The collaboration with his brother evolved until Bryan became his primary producer. His music has transcended borders, surpassing 6,700,000,000 global streams, a milestone achieved through his vision of making music with complete creative freedom and total independence from record labels. As an independent artist, Kevin Kaarl has maintained his creative freedom while achieving important milestones, including performing at Mexico's iconic Auditorio Nacional before 10,000 people at age 22. Kevin's music has transcended borders, profoundly connecting with audiences worldwide, especially in mass markets like Mexico, the United States, and Spain. His ability to convey emotions through his melodies and lyrics has established him as one of Latin America's most authentic Gen Z voices. His ability to convey emotions through his melodies and lyrics has established him as one of Latin America's most authentic Gen Z voices.
