Overview	Five-time James Beard Award-winning chef and head judge of Bravo’s “Top Chef,” Tom Colicchio continues to leave his mark on the Las Vegas Strip with his newest steakhouse, Tom Colicchio’s Heritage Steak. The restaurant concept takes cooking with fire to a new level featuring meats prepared entirely over an open flame using a charcoal grill, wood-burning oven, and Grillworks Infierno , a versatile grill that also serves as a hearth, broiler, smoker, and more. Colicchio’s passion for cooking with fire shines through every dish as each is prepared to bring out the natural flavors of the freshest ingredients available.

DÉCOR

The rustic feeling of Heritage Steak is one that exudes both modern comfort and luxury. The glow of the hearth from the restaurant's exhibition kitchen permeates the room which also features a photo mural of burnt firewood by photographer Amanda Weil. Design elements including a leather-clad wall, rows of firewood and a walnut-beamed ceiling create an ambiance of natural relaxation. Guests looking for a cocktail or quick bite can make themselves at home in the handsome lounge featuring plush banquette seating. The restaurant also offers a private dining room for special events and intimate gatherings.
